In this natural language processing exercise, I used a social media corpus, Python, and the NLTK Python package to automatically classify open-ended survey responses (which were a large variety of textual responses) as positive or negative, for a client in the midwest.

.....

Is there anything else you'd like to share with us?

Thoughts that were...

17%